

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

196. e. 61.

NOTICE.

In ordering copies of these works, purchasers are particularly requested to get them direct from the Publishers or specially appointed Agents. Orders from abroad accompanied by remittance will be promptly attended to. Postage, or cost of forwarding to foreign countries extra; and the Purchaser must take the risk of seizure by foreign Customs authorities.

The "International Mercantile Telegraph Code" contains nearly 20,000 well-selected phrases, suitable for all trades, commodities and business transactions. The ciphers are all most carefully chosen, plain English words, not exceeding 10 letters in length. Blanks and blank tables provided for additions. Price 25s. per copy. Published by Hamilton, Adams and Co., 32, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. This is by far the best Code offered to the public.

The "General Phrases" in the above—see folio 176 to 228—can be purchased alone and unbound for supplementing private codes. 5s. per copy. Apply to J. Mawdsley and Son, Castle Street, Liverpool.

The "General Telegraph Code" contains, besides the contents of the above, a very complete list of commodities and shares, which admits of reference to any article of commerce without previous arrangement; this Code is, therefore, suitable for a Firm commencing or extending their business. An abridged edition, omitting the lists of commodities and shares, folios 293 to 290, may be obtained; whereby 3,500 ciphers are available for additions. Price 21s. per copy. Published by Hamilton, Adams and Co., Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

The "Cotton Telegraph Code" compiled solely for the Cotton Trade, in which it has for years been universally adopted. The success and continued demand which this work enjoys, is the best proof of its practical and recognised efficiency.

Some small private sets of 10, 20, 30 and 40 copies with secret cipher, and a few copies of the old general edition (No. 32) still on hand. 20s. per copy.

The 33rd Edition is entirely remodelled to suit modern requirements, and has ciphers not exceeding 10 letters. This edition is compiled especially for the American Cotton Trade.

The 34th Edition is the same as the above, except that the qualities are left blank for adapting it according to the purchaser's requirements to the Indian, Brazil and Egyptian Cotton Trades.

The 33rd and 34th Editions, Two Guineas per copy, or three copies for 25 5s.

In the 33rd and 34th Editions, the General Phrases, folios 175 to 228, may be omitted, without in any way interfering with the working of the book; and thereby about 2,500 ciphers are left available for any additions which the specialities of the purchaser's business may render needful.

The "Numeral Cotton Code," a supplement to the above. By means of this Code, orders, firm offers, advice of purchase and sale, &c., with price, quantity, quality, mode of shipment, and the market, can be transmitted at a cost of two words. The great objection to the use of figures for Telegrams, viz., the liability to error and the difficulty in detecting it, is here overcome; a simple but thoroughly efficient check being provided without any increase in the length of the message. Especially suitable for the "arrival" business, and can also be used to check orders, offers, &c., sent by the Cotton Telegraph Code. Price 20s. Published by J. Mawdsley and Son, Castle Street, Liverpool.

A reduction in price will be made when more than 12 copies are taken at the same time.

COPIES MAY BE HAD EITHER BOUND OR IN SHEETS.

All the London and Provincial Papers speak in the highest possible terms of these Codes; and especially in their careful classification and the judicious selection of the phrases and ciphers is their superiority over other similar works apparent; while the success and continually increasing demand proves that the public recognise and appreciate their practical utility.

Private Telegraph Codes.—Firms whose business is of so complex a nature as to require specially compiled Codes are invited to communicate with the author (12 Exchange Buildings, Liverpool), who has a new and most valuable system for compiling these, whereby the bulk of the book is very much reduced and the highest possible degree of economy in working secured. This method will not be published, but will be reserved for private circulation only.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

THE INTERNATIONAL TELEGRAPH CODE.

The International Telegraph Congress, held in London this year (1879), having decided to prohibit the use of proper names "used adjectively," the author of the "International Telegraph Code" much regrets to be compelled to issue a New Edition of that work for use with countries affected by the new rules, as it contained some ciphers which come under the above clause. For such countries as are unaffected by the rules of Telegraph Congress—for instance, the "United States"—the original edition will remain as effective as ever, and therefore, in announcing the issue of a new edition, the author desires it to be distinctly understood, that the original edition of the "International Telegraph Code" will be continued as heretofore. In order to distinguish the new edition from the old, it will be published under the name of the

"COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPH CODE."

At 25s. per Copy.

No description is needed, as, with the exception of some alterations in the ciphers, it will be identical with the "International."

At the same time a Blank Code will be published, consisting of German ciphers, arranged in tables and pages, with spaces for manuscript headings and additions. The ciphers will be numbered so as to facilitate figure combinations, but the numerals need not in any way interfere with the use of the Code in the ordinary way. This Code will be called the

and will be published at 25s. per copy. It will be obtainable either separately bound, or also bound in at the end of the "International," the "Commercial," and the "Cotton Telegraph Codes" (No. 33 edition), adding of course in each case 25s. to the cost of each copy bought. In ordering copies, please to state if it is desired to have the books bound separately or in one.

The above are published by HAMILTON, ADAMS & CO., 32, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. Copies may also be obtained direct from the Author, H. R. MEYER, B 12, Exchange Buildings, Liverpool; J. MAWDSLEY & SON, 4 & 6, Castle Street, Liverpool; or through any of the authorised Agents.

PREFACE.

THE Telegraph Congress, held in London in 1879, having adopted the rule that no cipher word which was a "proper name used adjectively" should be admissible in a code message, and the old edition of the "International Telegraph Code" unfortunately containing a small number of these words, it became necessary to issue a revised edition of that work in order to meet the new requirements. Much regretting the annoyance which the revising of their Code arrangements must cause to the numerous firms using the above Code, the author has considered that the best way to meet the case, with as little inconvenience to users of the book as possible, is to issue a new edition, without any other changes than the needful alterations in the ciphers, and so avoid the trouble an entirely new Code would occasion before people accustomed themselves to it. For countries not included in the Telegraph Convention—such, for instance, as the United States—there need be no change whatever; and, therefore the old edition of the "International Code" will remain in print just as heretofore. In order that there may be no confusion between the old and new editions, it has been decided to publish the latter under the name of the "COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPH CODE," and print on toned paper, with a distinctive binding, so that even where the two books are in use in the same office simultaneously, no risk of confounding one with the other need be apprehended.

The Author desires it to be known that all his Codes are printed from stereotype plates, and therefore it is impossible that copies of any two editions of the same book can differ in the slightest degree, unless it is intended they should do so, in which case of course the fact will be plainly announced on the title page.

Should any further alterations in the rules of Telegraph Companies render the present Codes unavailable, they will be immediately reprinted to conform to the new requirements.

The sentences have been classified under various headings to allow of a speedy and easy coding of a message; but it is not intended that a sentence shall only apply to the heading it is under. Of the various methods of carrying out this classification, this has been found to work the best, it being easier to pick out a particular sentence, conveying the required shade of thought, when they are grouped according to their meaning, than under any other system. To assist in the selection of sentences, large type is used to draw immediate attention to various subjects, and the Index is arranged so as to give reference to any particular subject, within one-third of a page.

The best way to codify a message is, to draw it up first in plain language, then to divide it into subjects, and look up these subjects in the Index, and proceed to select the appropriate phrases.

Example :—

"Buy 500 tons pig iron (buying) at 65/3 (sterling), and ship by steamer to New York (shipping instructions), draw on us at 60% (drafts), insure for £2,000 (insurance); want to charter a sailing vessel of 900 tons (charters) for J. Williamson and Co. (firms' names), what can you offer? (offers)."

It is quite easy for any one using the book, even for the first time, to codify a message correctly, but it will be found that a careful study of the Code, or at least of its Index, will fully repay the trouble, in the increased economy obtained by an intelligent use of it. The growing importance of telegraphy and cipher codes in mercantile affairs becomes more and more evident every day, and no trouble expended in a perfect use of a really good code can be looked upon as thrown away.

It has come to the notice of the Author that many firms purchase a single copy of his codes and use portions of them to aid them in compiling their own codes, thereby, and no doubt unthinkingly, committing a breach of copyright. As the publishing of a work of this description is attended with very heavy outlay and enormous trouble, and the demand is limited, it is only right that the Author should have the full benefit of his labour and risk. Any firm wishing to use portions of these codes, in compiling their own, can always, as long as they do not publish the book for sale, make an arrangement with the Author to that effect by payment of a royalty.

It is intended to keep the type standing, in order that firms whose requirements this volume may not exactly meet, can effect any alterations they wish, and have a special edition struck off for their own use. Applications to be made to the Author.

Any practical suggestions respecting improvements will be gladly received, and, where possible, embodied in future editions. Address communications to the Author of the "International Mercantile Telegraph Code," care of Hamilton, Adams, and Co., 32, Paternoster Row, London, E.C.

Purchasers will greatly oblige by recommending these codes to their friends and correspondents at home and abroad. In ordering copies, please to get them direct from the Publishers.

The Author is not responsible for any consequences arising from insufficient explanations, similarity of ciphers, or any error whatever in his books; the greatest possible care has been taken to render them correct.

N.B.—There being other editions of this work differing in the ciphers, please take note that only copies having no distinguishing marks at the foot of each page, can be used in connection with this copy. The other editions referred to are private editions, and have at the bottom of all the pages the words: "Priv. Ed. No. —."

A METHOD FOR CHECKING THE ACCURACY OF A MESSAGE.

Let each letter of the alphabet be represented by a number, as follows :—

a . . 1	h . . 8	o . . 15	u . . 21
b . . 2	i . . 9	p . . 16	v . . 22
c . . 3	j . . 10	q . . 17	w . . 23
d . . 4	k . . 11	r . . 18	x . . 24
e . . 5	l . . 12	s . . 19	y . . 25
f . . 6	m . . 13	t . . 20	z . . 26
g . . 7	n . . 14

After drawing up the telegram as intended to be sent, add up the numbers representing the different letters used in the words of the message, and telegraph at the end of the telegram this total in figures.*

For example, supposing the following telegram to be despatched :—

a c c o s t	a d o r e	a n a r c h y	s a l i v a
1 - 8 - 8 - 15 - 19 - 20	1 - 4 - 15 - 18 - 5	1 - 14 - 1 - 18 - 8 - 8 - 25	19 - 1 - 12 - 9 - 22 - 1

and the figure below each letter is its representative in the above Table : these figures added together = 238 ; therefore the telegram would be sent off thus :—

“accost adore anarchy saliva 238.”

Instead of using figures, the cipher in the numerals meaning 238 could be used in preference, as figures are very liable to be telegraphed incorrectly.

The receiver of the telegram will add up the numbers repre-

* Most Companies transmit 5 figures as one word.

METHOD OF CHECKING THE ACCURACY OF A MESSAGE

senting the letters used in the telegram he has received (excepting, of course, those of the last word, which is the checking number), and if the total corresponds with the checking number, the telegram is correctly transmitted.

But more important still, not only does this method check the accuracy of a telegram, but in case of a mistake, it also provides a means of deciding what the faulty word really is, without having recourse to a repetition of the telegram, which at once incurs expense, and what may often prove dangerous—delay.

Supposing the above telegram had been transmitted all correctly, except the word “anarchy,” which was perfectly unrecognizable—but the meaning of the other words of the message suggested the word as probable;—to ascertain if it really is the correct word, add up the figures represented by the letters of the correctly transmitted words, and deduct this total from the checking number, thus:—

Checking number	238
Total figures of correct words	168
							<hr/>
Total of numbers represented by letters of word							} 70
wrongly transmitted

The numbers representing the letters of the word “anarchy” add up 70, therefore it may be taken as certain that “anarchy” is the correct word in this case, as it not only agrees with the sense of the telegram, but also with the checking number.

The use of this method of checking is of course optional, and must be arranged for by the parties using the Code.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CORRESPONDENTS:

This method of checking telegrams isto be used.

THE MORSE TELEGRAPH SIGNALS.

To assist in the discovery and rectification of errors in telegrams, the Morse alphabet and signals have been appended below. This system is most extensively used, particularly on submarine lines. Reference to these signals may often enable the receiver of a faulty message to trace and remedy an error.

ORDERS.

It will be found useful to give each order a number, to enable a reference to it in as few words as possible. The following ciphers may be telegraphed at the end of an order, which will then be called "Order No. —."

As each order is filled, cancelled, or lapses, the number by which it was called will be vacant for a fresh order.
